

A Prayer to Invoke Rain

As you prepare to give this prayer with Neptune and Luara, exhale six short and forceful cleansing breaths.

Beloved Neptune and Luara, we accept the mastery of fire and water, and of air and earth, to balance all within the four planes of matter. With a lilting song in our hearts and with the beloved undines, servants of the Divine Mother, we feel and see great droplets of rain in our midst, falling from clouds of light to water the earth, to clear the atmosphere, and to bless all with the Mother's radiance of joy. With humility and right motive, we now invoke rain through a loving call, attuned to your hearts and to the precious undines of the air, as we say:

O undines blessed with heaven's ray,
 Now shower upon us here today.
 Bring water into our domain,
 For in this we acclaim God's name.

I AM THAT I AM is here.
 Through perfect love, there is no fear.
 O Luara, Neptune dear,
 Bring us your rain and all good cheer.

With sincere hearts, we ask that all be accomplished according to the law of love and the will of God. We are grateful for the mind magnificent of the Creator as the Spirit speaks through the elementals. We see the awesomeness of their presence and the new possibilities as we live in joy. We accept your presence in the rainbows, shining your light through the prism of the rain, through which the sunlight of God-glory shines hope, happiness and holiness. We are at peace and all is fulfilled. Amen.
