

150. Will You Be Here for Me?

The Master's query of his disciples

Will you be here for me? Will you receive my gift?
And break the bread of life? And feed my lambs with light?
Will you be here for me? And wash their feet with care?
Bind up their wounds with hope?
Anoint their souls with grace?

A disciple's response

I will be here for you. I will impart your fire.
I will be true to you. I will love you.

The Master's query of his disciples

Will you be here for me? Will you restore my sacred words?
And keep my watch each night, my dear ones?
And pray with greater fire?

A disciple's response

I will be here for you. I will impart your hope.
I will restore their souls. I will love you.

The Master's response

If you would give me pause and share your deepest dreams
I will enfire your souls, my dear ones,
And share my diamond Self!

A disciple's response

I will be here for you. I will be kind to all.
I will restore your words. I will love you.

The Master's final request

Children, children, will you, will you... hear me?
